York University, founded in 1959, is now Canada's third largest university. The School of Continuing Studies was established in 2015 and is quickly becoming a leader in adult learning, serving working professionals and diverse communities while offering an unparalleled academic experience.

CERTIFICATE DESCRIPTION
The three-course certificate in Learning Experience Design (LXD) follows the process and flow of a real-world LXD professional, ensuring that students are gaining skills and techniques that directly support the type of work they would be doing on the job.

The certificate incorporated a “capstone” type project to the beginning of course one and threaded it through each course in the program. This project then became a through-line of learning ensuring that students are gaining skills and techniques that directly support the type of work that they will be doing on the job. The immediate application of skills and theory shortened the learning cycle, increasing deeper learning by students.

COURSE NEEDED
Creating a Proof of Concept: Developing a Learning Experience Prototype, November 21 – January 22

Experience the LXD building process that transforms learning designs into learning experiences. In this course, you will learn to make the most of your development time by thinking like a designer: prototype ideas, pilot solutions, and optimize your stakeholder feedback. Gain experience developing proofs of concept that leverage technology solutions and curation strategies that leave your learners (and clients) wanting more.

The course format will be online.

POSITION DESCRIPTION
We are seeking an experienced and credentialed subject matter expert to teach in our three-course Learning Experience Design Certificate under the direction of the Program Manager.

Instructors are expected to be online Monday-Friday for 30-45 minutes a day, to facilitate the learning of students. Instructors should also plan to be online one-hour each week for “office hours” to explain concepts and answer student questions.

INSTRUCTOR DUTIES
• Offer innovative approaches to quality teaching and learning that improve student experiences and outcomes, while ensuring the materials are presented professionally and meet the standards of the School of Continuing Studies
• Ensure course content/materials and assessments remain current and relevant
• Communicate with students in a supportive and professional manner
• Provide constructive feedback and grades to students in a timely fashion
• Respond promptly to office requests regarding student record keeping
• Periodically help with other program matters, including course updating, student recruitment and selection, transfer of credit review, etc.
• Establish and foster a safe, welcoming, and inclusive learning environment

QUALIFICATIONS
• University degree required; Master’s degree preferred, credential in Learning Experience Design preferred
• Experience in facilitation and/or teaching skills with adult learners preferred
• Strong communicator and collaborator
• Comfortable with technology
• Highly organized with strong time management skills
• Critical thinker and problem solver
• Learner-focused
• Professional and ethical

At York we boast a culture of respect, equity, diversity and inclusivity, where we value each other’s differences and exercise our strengths. The University welcomes applications from all qualified individuals, and encourages individuals within the University’s employment equity categories of women, persons with disabilities, members of visible minorities, Indigenous persons, individuals of diverse gender and sexual orientation and all groups protected by the Human Rights Code to apply. York University is committed to employment equity and diversity, and a positive and supportive environment. York University offers accommodation for applicants with disabilities in its recruitment processes. If you are contacted by York University regarding a job opportunity or testing, please advise if you require accommodation.

For More Information and to Apply:

Please submit a cover letter and resume

Todd Rich, Program Manager
toddrich@yorku.ca

We thank everyone for their interest, however, only candidates selected for interviews will be contacted.